An introduction to our services for graduate students

RUTGERS
School of Graduate Studies

GradFund
Fellowship Advising through Peer Mentoring
External funding

Key factors: academic preparation and background, stage of study, career goals, area of study.

Types of support: research grants and fellowships; writing fellowships; grants for travel, language study, or specialized training.
Grants vs. fellowships

- Grants provide support for research-related expenses.
- Fellowships provide support for living expenses.
GradFund services
As an SGS service, our mission is to help students identify and apply for extramural funding.

Since our founding in 2000, we have helped Rutgers graduate students win approx. $100 million in external support.
Our core services

- Individual meetings
- Award database, social media, and blog
- Mentoring programs
- Workshops and presentations
Virtual advising appointments

- Planning Meeting: to become familiar with the tools and resources needed to navigate the external funding landscape.

- Help with a Funder: to learn more about the funder's review process and how to best frame your research and plans to the funder's goals.

- Application Review: to review application materials for one award application.

OPERATING STATUS

In response to the University’s operating status, the GradFund Team is working remotely. Our advising meetings will take place online over Webex.

If you have a question about your appointment or applying for external funding, please send an email to fellowship.advisor@gradfund.rutgers.edu

We have also taken this time to redesign our *Planning Meeting! This newly designed meeting type will familiarize you with the tools and resources needed to navigate the external funding landscape.
